PROPOSALS

For Publishing, by Subscription,

THE COMPLETE WORKS OF

SIR WALTER SCOTT:

With a Biography: being the first American (and only) edition which contains the Author's last additions and illustrations, arranged upon their respective pages.

A COMPLETE and uniform edition of the various productions of the great 'Minstrel of the North,' is a desideratum with the American public. No library is complete without them, and no edition extant is sufficiently compact for such a repository; while the endless number of editions, without any uniformity in size, heretofore published, besides being exceedingly cumbrous, are far too voluminous and expensive to be within the reach of the great majority of readers. The undersigned therefore announce, that they have now in press, and will issue, an edition of the Works of Sir Walter Scott, which will embrace all his Poems, Novels, Histories, Biographies, and Fugitive Compositions, as well as the Biography and Private Correspondence, now in the course of publication in England, under the superintendence of Mr. Lockhart.

1st. In Parts: each Part embracing as much matter as is contained in two volumes of the present editions of the Waverley Novels, which will be put at the unprecedented low price of THIRTY SEVEN AND A HALF CENTS.

2d. Two parts will appear each month; but should the publishers find the work to meet the patronage they anticipate, FOUR PARTS will be issued monthly.

3d. The whole will be completed in seven volumes, or forty eight parts.

The paper on which the above is now printing, has been made expressly for the purpose; the present parts may, therefore, be considered a fair specimen, in every respect, of the whole work; but, should dissatisfaction arise with any subscriber, owing to an inferior article being offered, he may discontinue at any time, and have the amount paid returned.

Note.—The publication of the first volume is deferred until the receipt of the Biography, Private Correspondence, and the New Edition of the Author's Poetical Works, with 'contemporary criticism—various readings—and correspondence with some of the most eminent persons of the time when the Poems first appeared,' now in the course of publication in England.

Volume 1 will be ornamented with an excellent Portrait of Sir Walter Scott.

DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

MONDAY AFTERNOON, SEPT. 30, 1833.

A LARGE APPLE.—Mr. Samuel Thompson, of this city, handed to us, a few days since, a very handsome, sound, and rich apple, which measures, in circumference, longitudinally, fourteen inches, and transversely, thirteen inches, and weighs seventeen and three fourth ounces.

We propose to address a few remarks to the National Republicans upon the subject of the approaching election.—We are aware that what we have to urge may not be regarded much by those to whom our remarks may be addressed, but still we will persist. We are determined, that, if any portion of the anti Jackson party here are guilty of criminal inconsistency, they shall not act without notice.

You, National Republicans, have long and loudly boasted that you are most consistent politicians, and the most strenuous adherents to principles in preference to men. This boast was well founded, perhaps, in every case except one: your support of Henry Clay—after his conduct during the last session of Congress—forms the exception to which we refer. On that occasion, we did think you sacrificed principle for a man; we may, however, have been mistaken, and even if you were wrong, you had the credit of acting under the influence of an honest attachment to a very able man.

On the present occasion, however, it does seem to our mind that the course many of you are about to pursue is palpably wrong, and has not the excuse which existed in the case of Mr. Clay's conduct in relation to the Tariff.

There are now two tickets for the Legislature before the people of this county. The individuals on one of these tickets are decided friends to the Bank of the U. States. Three of the candidates on the other ticket are thoroughgoing Jackson men, approvers of the veto, defenders of the removal of the deposits, and advocates of the entire destruction of the Bank. In other words, they are under the control and guardianship of Lynch, Mulvany, and Gallagher. You profess to be friends of the Bank—you claim great credit for consistency, and boast greatly about your preference of principles to men, and yet, with a most remarkable inconsistency, many of you have determined to vote for the last ticket, three of the candidates on which are, and will be, bitter enemies of the very Bank to which you profess to be friends.—If we talk with you on the street, or in your house, or elsewhere, you are decided friends of the Bank, favorable to the renewal of its charter, and to the continuance of the deposits in its vaults—and yet, with a grossness of inconsistency, never surpassed, you propose to vote for three men, who are enemies of the Bank, opposed to the renewal of its charter, and in favor of the removal of the deposits.—Your professions are favorable to the Bank—your votes are to be given to men who are endeavoring to destroy it.—If you should succeed by your votes in electing the three Jackson candidates, you will probably have full leisure to discover the error of your course. You all, no doubt, recollect that the unanimity of our legislature, during two or three years past, in favor of the Bank, by overawing Messrs. Wilkins and Dallas, kept them firm against the veto. This was so true and so manifest, that Judge Wilkins approved the veto, and yet, in obedience to the instructions of the Legislature, voted against it.

If you now succeed in electing Messrs. Robinson, Kerr, &c., you weaken the friends of the Bank, in the legislature, and strengthen its enemies, and thus destroy the influence it held over Judge Wilkins. But even this is not all: by electing enemies of the Bank, you proclaim to the world, that although Pennsylvania was once almost unanimous in favor of the Bank, it is now no longer so. That now, either owing to the arguments in the veto message, or to some other cause, a change has commenced in this State. If such an impression should once get into circulation, the fate of the Bank will be forever sealed. There are, in our delegation in Congress, several members, who would at once bow the knee to the great Magician, and vote against the Bank, if they thought it was losing ground.

The coalition which you have formed with the Jackson men, in this county, is unexampled. We are aware that in other counties there have been coalitions, but always, we believe, with McKean men—men who are true to Pennsylvania interests—your union is with Van Buren men, who are opposed to Pennsylvania interests, to the Bank of the United States, &c. In Philadelphia the National Republicans are honestly laboring to put down Van Burenism. In Allegheny county the National Republicans profess to believe that Van Burenism is worse than Jacksonism, and yet (mirabile dictu) they are doing all they can to strengthen the influence of the Magician. Can honest men justify such conduct to their consciences?—We know that many of the National Republicans declare that they will not vote for Irwin, Bayne, &c. because they are anti masons. The amount of this matter, then, is this—They are willing to vote for men who are enemies of the Bank, but not for those who are enemies of Masonry. You declare that the Bank is an invaluable institution, and yet, to sustain Masonry, you contribute your mite to destroy that invaluable institution. You propose to do what you admit to be wrong, with the hope that good may come of it.—The wrong you do is certain; the good you hope for, is entirely hopeless. If you fail, you will have the mortification of knowing that you have done all you could in opposition to your professed principles. If you succeed, and elect the Van Buren candidates, and they should next winter vote, as they undoubtedly will, against resolutions in favor of the Bank, or in favor of resolutions against the Bank, what will then be your situation and your feelings? You will then have the mortifying recollection that, with loud professions of friendship for the Bank, you did all you could to destroy it; and you will afford to the antimasons, conclusive evidence that you preferred masonry to the interests of the Bank and of Pennsylvania.

In these remarks we refer entirely to three Van Buren men on the ticket you support.—To your support of Mr. Hilands, we offer not the slightest objection, he is a National Republican, and although in supporting him your labors are entirely hopeless, yet it involves no sacrifice of principle; he is a friend of the Bank, and an enemy of the Intriguer and Magician, and is not to be bullied nor bought to oppose the former or support the latter.

We have much more to say on this subject, and will return to it again.

But in the conduct of the Bank may be found other reasons very imperative in their character, and which require prompt action. Developments have been made from time to time of its faithlessness as a public agent, its misapplication of public funds. its interference in elections, its efforts, by machinery of committees, to deprive the Government Directors of a full knowledge of its concerns, and above all, its flagrant misconduct, as recently and unexpectedly disclosed in placing all the funds of the Bank. including the money of the Government, at the disposition of the President of the Bank, as means of operating upon public opinion and procuring a new charter, without requiring him to render a voucher for their disbursement. A brief recapitulation of the facts which justify these charges, and which have come to the knowledge of the public and the President, will, he thinks, remove every reasonable doubt as to the course which is now the duty of the President to pursue.

We have seen that in sixteen months, ending in May, 1832, the Bank had extended its loans more than $28,000,000, although it knew the Government intended to appropriate most of its large deposits during that year in payment of the public debt. It was in May, 1832, that its loans arrived at the maximum, and in the preceding March, so sensible was the Bank that it would not be able to pay over the public deposit when it would be required by the Government, that it commenced a secret negotiation, without the approbation or knowledge of the Government, with the agents, for about $2,700,000 of the three per cent. stocks held in Holland, with a view of inducing them not to come forward for payment for one or more years after notice should be given by the Treasury Department. This arrangement would have enabled the Bank to keep and use during that time the public money set apart for the payment of these stocks.

After this negotiation had commenced, the Secretary of the Treasury informed the Bank, that it was his intention to pay off one half of the three per cents on the first of the succeeding July, which amounted to about $6,500,000. The President of the Bank, although the committee of investigation was then lookiag into its affairs at Philadelphia, came immediately to Washington, and upon representing that the Bank was desirous of accommodating the importing merchants at New York (which it failed to do) and undertaking to pay the interest itself, procure the consent of the Secretary, after consultation with the President, to postpone the payment until the succeeding first of October.

Conscious that at the end of that quarter the Bank would not be able to pay over the deposits and that further indulgence was not to be expected of the Government, an agent was despatched to England secretly to negotiate with the holders of the public debt in Europe, and induce them by the offer of an equal or higher interest than that paid by the Government to hold back their claims for one year, during which the Bank expected thus to retain the use of $5,000,000 of public money which the Government should set apart for the payment of that debt. The agent made an arrangement on terms, in part, which were in direct violation of the character of the Bank, and when some incidents connected with this secret negotiation accidentally came to the knowledge of the public and the Government, then and not before, so much of it as was palpably in violation of the charter was disavowed! A modification of the rest was attempted with the view of getteng the certificates without payment of the money, and thus absolving the Government from its liability to the holders. In this scheme the Bank was partially successful, but to this day the certificates of a portion of these stocks have not been paid, and the Bank retains the use of the money.

This effort to thwart the Government in the payment of the public debt, that it might retain the public money to be used for their private interests, palliated by pretences notoriously unfounded and insincere, would have justified the instant withdrawal of the public deposits.—The negotiation itself rendered doubtful the ability of the Bank to meet the demand of the Treasury, and the misrepresentations by which it was attempted to be justified, proved that no reliance could be placed upon its allegations.

If the question of a removal of the deposits presented itself to the Executive in the same attitude that it appeared before the House of Representatives at their last session, their resolution in relation to the safety of the deposits, would be entitled to more weight, although the decision of the question of removal has been confided by law to another department of the Government. But the question now occurs, attended by other circumstances and new disclosures of the most serious import. It is true that in the message of the President, which produced this inquiry and resolution on the part of the House of Representatives, it was his object to obtain the aid of that body in making a thorough examination into the conduct and condition of the Bank and its branches, in order to enable the Executive Department to decide whether the public money was longer safe in its hands. The limited power of the Secretary of the Treasury over the subject disabled him from making the investigation as fully and satisfactorily as it could be done by a committee of the House of Representatives, and hence the President desired the assistance of Congress to obtain for the Treasury Department a full knowledge of all the facts which were necessary to guide his judgment. But it was not his purpose, as the language of his message will show, to ask the Representatives of the people to assume a responsibility which did not belong to them, and relieve the Executive branch of the Government from the duty which the law had imposed upon it.

It is due to the President that his object in that proceeding should be distinctly understood, and that he should acquit himself of all suspicion of seeking to escape from the performance of his own duties, or of desiring to interpose another body between himself and the people, in order to avoid a measure which he is called upon to meet. But, although, as an act of justice to himself, he disclaims any design of soliciting the opinion of the House of Representatives in relation to his own duties, in order to shelter himself from responsibility under the sanction of their counsel, yet he is at all times ready to listen to the suggestions of the Representatives of the people, whether given voluntarily or upon solicitation, and to consider them with the profound respect to which all will admit that they are justly entitled. Whatever may be the consequences, however, to himself, he must finally form his own judgment, where the constitution and the law makes it his duty to decide, and must act accordingly; and he is bound to suppose that such a course on his part will never be regarded by that elevated body as a mark of disrespect to itself: but that they will, on the contrary, esteem it the strongest evidence he can give of his fixed resolution, conscientiously to discharge his duty to them and the country.

A new state of things has, however, arisen since the close of the last session of Congress, and evidence has since been laid before the President, which he is persuaded would have led the House of Representatives to a different conclusion, if it had come to their knowledge. The fact that the Bank controls, and, in some cases, substantially owns, and by its money supports some of the leading presses of the country, is now more clearly established. Editors to whom it loaned extravagant sums, in 1831 and 1832, on unusual time, and nominal security, have since turned out to be insolvent; and to others, apparently in no better condition, accommodations still more extravagant, on terms more unusual, and sometimes without any security, have also been heedlessly granted.

The allegation, which has so often circulated through these channels, that the Treasury was bankrupt, and the Bank was sustaining it, when, for many years, there has not been less, on an average, than six millions of public money in that institution, might be passed over as a harmless misrepresentation; but when it is attempted, by substantial acts, to impair the credit of the Government, and tarnish the honor of the country, such charges require more serious attention. With six millions of public money in its vaults, after having had the use of from five to twelve millions, for nine years, without interest, it became the purchaser of a bill, drawn by our Government on France, for about 900,000 dollars, being the first instalment of the French indemnity. The purchase money was left in the use of the Bank, being simply added to the Treasury deposit. The Bank sold the bill in England, and the holder sent it to France for collection, and arrangements not having been made by the French Government for its payment, it was taken up by the agents of the Bank, in Paris, with the funds of the Bank in their hands. Under these circumstances it has, through its organs, openly assailed the credit of the Government; and has actually made, and persists in, a demand of fifteen per cent., or $158,842 77, as damages, when no damage, or none, beyond some trifling expense, has in fact been sustained, and when the Bank had, in its own possession, on deposit, several millions of the public money, which it was then using for its own profit. Is a fiscal agent to the Government, which thus seeks to enrich itself at the expense of the public, worthy of further trust?

There are other important facts not in the contemplation of the House of Representatives, or not known to the members at the time they voted for the resolution.

Although the charter and the rules of the Bank both declare that "not less than seven directors" shall be necessary to the transaction of business, yet the most important business even that of granting discounts to any extent, is entrusted to a committee of five members, who do not report to the Board.

To cut off all means of communication with the Government, in relation to its most important acts at the commencement of the present year, not one of the Government Directors was placed on any Committee. And although, since, by an unusual remodeling of those bodies, some of those directors have been placed on some of the Committees, they are yet entirely excluded from the Committee of Exchange, through which the greatest and most objectionable loans have been made.

When the Government Directors made an effort to bring back the business of the Bank to the Board, in obedience to the charter and the existing regulations, the Board not only overruled their attempt, but altered the rule so as to make it conform to the practice, in direct violation of one of the most important provisions of the charter which gave them existence.

It has long been known that the President of the Bank, by his single will, originates and executes many of the most important measures connected with the management and credit of the Bank, and that the Committee, as well as the Board of Directors, are left in entire ignorance of many acts done, and correspondence carried on, in their names, and apparently under their authority. The fact has been recently disclosed, that an unlimited discretion has been, and is now vested in the President of the Bank to extend its funds in payment for preparing and circulating articles, and purchasing pamphlets and newspapers, calculated by their contents to operate on elections, and secure a renewal of its charter. It appears, from the official report of the Public Directors, that, on the 30th November, 1830, the President submitted to the Board an article published in the American Quarterly Review, containing favorable notices of the Bank, and suggested the expediency of giving it a wider circulation at the expense of the Bank; whereupon the Board passed the following resolution, viz:—

"Resolved, That the President be authorized to take such measures in regard to the circulation of the contents of the said article, either in whole or in part, as he may deem most for the interest of the Bank."

By an entry in the minutes of the Bank, dated March 11th, 1831, it appears that the President had not only caused a large edition of that article to be issued, but had also, before the resolution of 30th November was adopted, procured to be printed and widely circulated, numerous copies of the Reports of Gen. Smith and Mr. McDuffie, in favor of the Bank, and on that day he suggested the expediency of extending his power to the printing of other articles which might subserve the purposes of the institution. Whereupon the following resolution was adopted, viz:—

"Resolved, That the President is hereby authorized to cause to be prepared and circulated, such documents and papers as may communicate to the people information in regard to the nature and operations of the Bank."

The expenditures, purporting to have been made under authority of these resolutions, during the years 1831 and 1832, were $80,000. For a portion of these expenditures, vouchers were rendered, from which it appears they were incurred in the purchase of some hundred thousand copies of newspapers, reports and speeches, made in Congress, reviews of the Veto Message, &c. For another large portion no vouchers whatever were rendered, but the various sums were paid on orders of the President of the Bank, making reference to the resolution of the 11th March, 1831.

(To be concluded to morrow.)

The way it was done.—A letter, from an authentic source, received from Washington, states, substantially, that Mr. Duane was altogether too much of a man to resign his office, but was turned out, in the true Jacksonian style. The following are the particulars as reported:

The Cabinet Council convened at the President's house, on Monday, when the Secretary of State, Mr. M'Lane, the Secretary of War, Gov. Cass, and the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Duane, each presented written opinions adverse to the view of the question presented by the President at the previous meeting.

These documents having been severally read—

The President declared that he had determined on what course to pursue; and, turning to Mr. Duane, required him to sign the circulars to the officers of the customs, directing the removal of the deposits.

The Secretary of the Treasury replied, that he had duly considered the subject, in all its bearings, and could not consent to the issuing of any such order. Whereupon

The President, who, as his flatterers tell him, "was born to command," turned from his Minister of Finance (with a cloudy brow no doubt) and directing his eyes to the Attorney General, said—

Mr. Taney, I APPOINT YOU SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

There was no mistake in this delicate insinuation.

Mr. Duane was no longer Secretary of the Treasury.—Oliver Cromwell could not have done it in better style.—N. Y. Com. Adv.

From the National Gazette, Sept. 25.

London papers to the evening of the 23d, and Liverpool of the 24th, have been received at New York. We copy the most interesting part of the new matter. It appears that Lisbon was not considered as quite safe from the forces of Don Miguel, and that the struggle generally in Portugal was not likely to be soon terminated. It is positively stated that a treaty offensive and defensive has been concluded between Russia and Turkey. The bill for the abolition of Negro Slavery in the British West Indies, has passed both houses of the British parliament. Doubtless, the royal assent too has been given.

The London Globe says of the Treaty between Russia and Turkey—"It was not communicated to France or England, and possibly not to Austria; and the reason assigned for this omission is, that Count Orloff concluded it in such haste, as not even to wait for specific instructions from the Autocrat, and of course without having any time for consultation with other powers." The Globe adds of the treaty, that, so far as its import is known through indirect channels of communication, "it will give Russia such a power over Turkey as no other Power can approve."

The Paris National, after some observations on the importance of an offensive and decisive alliance between Russia and Turkey, in pursuance of which the latter Power would be compelled to close its ports against any nation with which the former may go to war, argues that the only remedy for the evil is for France to form an equally close alliance with Egypt, which it strongly advises, being at once done, if, indeed, it be not already too late, and if the success which Mehemet Ali has obtained without the assistance of France, do not induce him to consider her friendship as now useless to him. The Globe announces that all the material points in dispute between Holland and Belgium are settled, and only minor matters of detail yet unarranged.

We learn, verbally, through the Captain that the Slave Emancipation Bill had pased both Houses of the British Parliament.

France was perfectly tranquil.

Switzerland was peaceable, the federal troops having taken possession of Basle.

King Otho was visiting, in succession, the islands of the Archipelago.

The anniversary of American Independence was celebrated on the 4th of July, by the American residents at Smyrna.

The news brought by the Pantaloon from Portugal, of the troops of Don Miguel being actually on their march to Lisbon, has naturally produced a strong feeling of uneasiness in the minds of interested parties, and a consequent depression in the price of Portuguese securities, the stock being at 86 to 87, and the Regency Scrip at 21 1-2 premium. The statement, however, of the arrival of Marshal Bourmont at the head of 30,000 men, at Santarem, on the 12th inst., is not believed, as it is considered physically impossible for troops to have marched so great a distance in so short a space of time, and also from letters having been received from Lisbon, dated on the evening of the 13th, which do not in any way refer to it, although written by parties who must and would have been in possession and knowledge of the fact.

Since the arrival of Don Pedro at Lisbon, he has been taking most active measures for the establishment of the Constitutional cause. A decree issued by him, as Regent of Portugal, in the name of the Queen Donna Maria, orders the immediate formation of national battalions, in which all persons are to be compelled to enrol themselves, with the exception of those whose professions are incompatible with such service. It is stated that at a public dinner given to Don Pedro, on the anniversary of the taking the oath to the Constitutional Charter, his health was drunk with much greater entnusiasm than that of the Queen, or than any other of the constitutional toasts proposed. The commission granted to the Duke of Palmella has been revoked, and a decree issued directing all laws and other acts of the Portuguese government to be passed in the name of Don Pedro as Regent. It appears that on the 29th July, he went to the Royal Monastery of St. Vincent, where he caused mass to be celebrated for the repose of the soul of his father.

We are informed, that experiments have been made, under the direction of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal Company, which show that navigation, by steam, may be advantageously substituted for the present mode—towage by horses upon the canal. The injury done to the banks, by the small steam boat, constructed for the experiment, was very trifling, when compared with that by the barge for passengers. Part of the experiments were made at a rate exceeding eight miles an hour, and in the narrowest part of the canal. The surge, when the steam boat towed a barge was reduced to so small a limit that, practically, it was not worth considering. The speed, during this last experiment, exceeded, at times, six miles per hour.—U. S. Gazette.

Medical Force of Paris.—It appears from a late return, made by the Prefecture of the Seine, that there are at present 1652 medical practitioners practising in Paris. Of these, 879 are Doctors of Medicine of the new school; 36 Doctors of Surgery of the same; 209 Officiers de Sante; 256 Midwives; 9 Physicians of the old school; 18 Physicians of other faculties than those of Paris; 14 officiers de Sante, with certificates instead of diplomas; 12 Midwives of the same class; 19 Foreign Physicians, authorized to practise; and 300 Practitioners, who have no qualification. The last item is certainly curious—nearly a fifth part of the corps medicale of Paris unqualified!—and this when we consider that the profession in France is so immediately under the care and cognizance of government!—Med. Gaz.

Fire.—Mr. Cuthbert's Foundry took fire yesterday afternoon, and was consumed, together with a part of his ware room. The fire was occasioned by the explosion of the metal while preparing to make a very heavy casting.—Wheeling Gazette, Sept. 28.

Embezzlement.—An advertisement has been issued by the Cashier of the Bank of Salina, offering $1,000 reward for the apprehension of Porter W. Hyde, one of the clerks thereof, who absconded from the village of Salina, on Tuesday last, with about $8,000 in bills of the Bank, among which were ninety nine bills of the denomination of $50 each, and a like number, of $20 each, besids others of smaller amounts. They are all dated the 1st January, 1833, and signed by Nathan Munro, as President, and A. Kellogg, Cashier.

Post Office Delinquency.

ON the 19th of March last, I wrote a letter to Lewis Clapier, Esq. of Philadelphia, which I placed in the Post Office at Saegerstown on the same day, and by information lately received from Mr. Clapier, I find the letter has not reached him. Enclosed with the letter, in a strong envelop, was a patent for donation lot No. 6, containing three hundred acres of land, situate in the first district, now Beaver county, granted by the State of Pennsylvania to Major George Tudor, for services in the revolutionary war, and dated the 5th day of October, 1787. On the back of the patent is a transfer of same by Major Tudor to Walter Stewart, dated the 14th day of February, 1792, and both recorded in the Recorder's office, in Allegheny county, in Deed Book F, page 129, &c. The whole package was directed to Lewis Clapier, Esq., Philadelphia, and the Post Office in Saegerstown on the day first above mentioned, charged the Philadelphia Post Office with the postage thereof, amounting to one dollar twelve and a half cents. This package must have been detained, and most probably purloined, in some intermediate Post Office, and whoever has done it, has not had the honesty to forward it to its place of destination. As the patent can be of use whatever to the person into whose hands it may have fallen, but is of consequence to myself, I will give a generous reward to any one will deliver it to me, or forward it to the Post Office in Saegerstown, Crawford county, Pennsylvania, or to Lewis Clapier, Esq., in Philadelphia.

Mechanics' Magazine, and Register of Improvements and Inventions. To the Mechanics of the United States---In this populous and enlightened country, almost every description of persons can obtain knowledge and amusement connected with their peculiar pursuits, through the medium of the Journal or Magazine, especially devoted to their interests. The Theologian, the Farmer, the Philosopher, the Sportsman, and even the Plough Boy, has each his Journal, where he can find a record of the passing events of the day, connected with his peculiar avocations and recreations. Hitherto, the Mechanics (who form a large and most important portion of the community) have had no Journal, to which they could turn, with the certainty of finding that information they desire, no periodical of which they could say: 'This is ours, and for us.' In the hope that the attempt to supply such a want at a price so reasonable as to be within the reach of all, will meet with your active support, the subscriber proposes to publish, on the first day of each month, a Mechanics' Magazine. It will contain a well digested selection of the most useful and interesting articles in the London Mechanics' Magazine, London Register of Arts and Sciences, Repertory of Inventions, Library of Useful Knowledge, Journal of the Franklin Institute, and other works, connected with the arts and manufactures, published in this country and in Europe, accompanied with numerous and well executed Engravings. Its pages will be open for the communications of all, and especially for those of the practical artisan, to whose interest it will be particularly devoted. The Mechanics' Magazine will contain, also, a due portion of the occurrences of the month, Scientific and Literary Reviews of Books, Anecdotes, Economical Receipts, Reports of the state of Mechanics' Institutions, and other Scientific Societies in this state and other countries. To be published monthly. Each succeeding number will contain 64 pages, handsomely printed, and stitched in a neat cover. Six numbers will form a volume, for which an index and title page will be supplied, and also a Portrait of some distinguished Mechanic, as a Frontispiece. Terms, $3 per annum, in advance.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S
☞ WELCH MEDICAMENTUM.☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,
From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.
Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer is vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S
COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes givingt emporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
